

St. Vincent Family Centers
1490 East Main Street
Columbus, OH 43205

For Release: January 28, 2008
Contact: Jill Frost, 614-255-5758

Andrew Seeholzer is ONN Teacher of the Month

Columbus – Andrew Seeholzer, a first year teacher with St. Vincent Family Centers has been named the Ohio News Now (ONN) / Westfield Insurance Teacher of the Month! Each month during the 2007-2008 School Year, ONN and Westfield Insurance honor an Ohio teacher who is making a special impact in their school or community.

St. Vincent Family Centers serves children who have severe emotional and behavioral problems. The agency provides unique mental health services and programs, ranging from outpatient and Deaf services to preschool and school age partial hospitalization programs.

Andrew Seeholzer, who works in the School Age Partial Hospitalization Program (SAPH), leads a classroom of children nine – 11 years of age. Andrew is featured in a news segment airing on ONN beginning Monday, January 28. The story can also be viewed online at: www.ohionewsnow.com.

In nominating Andrew for the recognition, SAPH Program Director Heidi Kleinman said, "Andrew is calm and caring with the children and has built a great academic structure in the room. He provides the consistency and stability vital to his students." She added, though he is a first year teacher, "Andrew has as acquired an amazing level of expertise with our children and the needs they bring."

St. Vincent Family Centers is a Council on Accreditation (COA) agency, certified by the Ohio Department of Mental Health, a member of the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), and a provider agency for the ADAMH Board and United Way. For more information call 614-252-0731 or visit the website at www.svfc.org.